FORD'S PEACE PARTY

Christmas in Sweden. Incidents which Tried Their Patience

By J. E. Jones.

We were scheduled to leave Christiania for Stockholm at nine o'clock in the morning on a special train. As usual the management of the interests of Mr. Ford arranged for the best train to be had in all Scandinavia. Our baggage was piled in the center of the waiting room of the station and it was nearly two hours before it was put aboard. After a long wait our special train finally got under way shortly after eleven o'clock. We were soon to find that a "special train" must give precedence in every case to trains on the regular schedule, and therefore the trip which should have finished in about twelve hours dragged along all night, and it was half past seven in the morning before we reached Stockholm.

Our train consisted of parlor cars and along one side of each of the cars was a narrow aisle, from which entrance was effected into the compartments. Into one of these compartments, which could comfortably house about six people, if they sat up straight eight persons were obliged to crowd themselves. My recollection of our compartment is that it was handsomely upholstered and that our train had been eight hours on the road before the two rear cars were heated. It was a bitter cold day, and though we all wanted to tell somebody in the official railroad world about our difficulties there were no trainmen to be found, and therefore there was nothing to do except to make the best of the bad conditions. These "palatial" parlor cars are usually lighted by kerosene lamps and before we arrived at our destination a great many lights had burned out. There were no blankets or other coverings in the cars and the only way to keep warm was to wrap up in one's clothing as we brought with us. One of the dangerous feints that we were all obliged to accomplish in going for our meals in the dining car was the passage from one car to another over an open platform that was as unsafe as the passage between the old cars, before the days of vestibules, in the United States twenty-five years ago. After nightfall one of our party was reported missing and everyone was sure that he had fallen off the train. Fortunately the fear was unfounded. The railroad cars are much lighter and shorter than those in the United States, although they are quite well built. One could not help but notice that the roadbed was defective, and one reason was traceable to the light rails, such as are no longer used except on narrow gauge lines and private tracks, and the like, in the United States. It took the dining car officials four hours to serve the 150 members of our party with meals.
As this performance of satisfying the finer man was gone through with twice, some of our people did not get their evening meal until after ten o'clock at night. The food was ordinarily good; but what was the surprise of our managers when they were resented with a bill for $1,000 for these two meals. Think of it—over $3.00 a meal. The bill was finally "cut."

My only object in describing this briefly the journey over this railroad is to convey the impression, meagre though it may be, of the lamentable defects in management, since the line is owned and operated by the Norwegian and Swedish governments. My observation of government railway management as illustrated on this trip is not at all favorable, and in this viewpoint the 150 members of our expedition will entirely agree.

In the United States Washington is frequently referred to as "the parlor of the Nation," because it is our country's most beautiful city. Stockholm might also be referred to as the parlor of Scandinavia unless its more common title "the Venice of the North" might be considered more complimentary. Here the Baltic is seen for the first time, and there are bays and inlets that stretch into the very heart of the city; and watercraft, great arched bridges, royal buildings, and public and private institutions, as well as magnificent homes, greet the eye.
From the point where I sit writing this letter I look out over one of these branches of the Baltic, and reflect that Russia and the war are only 300 miles away. Less than five hundred yards separates the King's Palace, and almost adjoining it is the Reichstag. Th

GOULD'S ACADEMY

Elwin Wilson is detained at home by illness.

Ice cream and cake will be on sale at the Fair. You will find it at the Y. W. C. A. table.

Some of the boys went to the station Monday forenoon to welcome the conference delegation with hearty cheers.

Three of our boys attended the conference held at Fairfield last week.
Harris Hamlin, president of our Y. M.
C. A., and leader of our delegation, was chosen by the conference as vice president for the ensuing year.

All who are interested in basketball come to the gymnasium next Friday evening at 7.45 and see how our girls can play. The opposing team is made up of alumni, girls you will all be glad to see again. We expect Viola Barlett, Eva Bartlett, Mabel Bailey, Mildred Chapman and Mabel Packard, all good players who have at some time starred on the regular Gould's team.
Only 15 cents will be charged for admission.

We are hoping for your patronage at our Annual School Fair next Thursday, Mar. 2. The Alumni are to serve tea in the ladies parlor at Garland Chapel, besides having their regular table of pretty things to sell. The Senior's table in the center of the chapel as usual, will offer dainty fancy articles.
If you desire an apron or other useful gift for some friend, turn to your right, there a smiling Junior will find for you just what you want. Perhaps you need some new household utensil.
The Sophomores are to sell these and have a fish pond too, in which there are many pretty surprises, one for you I am sure. Knowing you have a sweet tooth, the Freshmen will have a table loaded with candy. It's the homestead, the kind you like, rich with cream and other good things. The Y. W. C. A. girls will sell you a carnation and a handkerchief if you care to buy one.
These girls will appreciate your patronage for they are working hard to earn money for a special purpose. They will be glad to tell you what if you ask them. Now, if you get hungry, go down stairs where Miss Pratt and the girls will have a cafeteria supper ready for you. By the time you have finished this and chatted with your friends a few minutes, the students will present a short program in the chapel. This will include a farce, something to make you laugh, and some music. Come and see what a good time we can give you.

HASTINGS-RICHARDSON

Quiet Wedding of Popular Bethel Couple

Hon. Henry H. Hastings and Miss Ethel M. Richardson were quietly married in Portland last Wednesday, Feb.
16, by Rev. Charles Harbutt.

Mr. Hastings is one of the leading lawyers of Oxford County and is well known throughout the State, having been a member of both houses of the Legislature, and is at present secretary of the State Republican Committee. He has always taken an active interest in town affairs, serving as superintendent of schools for many years and later as a member of the school board.

Miss Richardson is one of Bethel's popular young ladies and was a very successful school teacher.
Mr. and Mrs. Hastings will make their home in Mayville in the Rev.
David Garland house which Mr. Hastings has recently purchased and reno-

ROBERT HOWE.

Robert Howe was born April 2, 1841, on Howe Hill in Greenwood, Maine, the son of Ira and Deborah (Morgan) Howe. Here he spent his early life.

On June 28, 1861, he answered the call for volunteers, and enlisted in the 5th Maine Regiment, Colonel Edwards Company 2. He freely gave his service to his country for three years, being honorably discharged June 26, 1864. During this time he took part in several important battles, among them were Gettysburg, Antietam, Spitt-sylvania and Chancellorsville.

In 1865 he married Elsie Collins and there were born to them five daughters and one son. The son, Ira, died when a young man and the mother soon followed her son. The daughters all survive, Lucinda of Greenwood, Mrs. Mary Linnell of Magalloway, Mrs. Anna Damon of Island Pond, Vt., Mrs. Grace Foley of Bethel, Mrs. Maud Symonds of Los Angeles, Cal., there are also several grandchildren and one great-grandson.

He was employed for several years at Skillings' Spool Mill. In 1891 he moved to the rent on the farm of Ellis Anderson and son where he very ably and faithfully assisted with the management of the farm up to within a few years of his death.

About a year ago he was taken ill and gradually failed. Last fall he went to the home of his daughter in Island Pond where he was tenderly and lovingly cared for during his last days.
For several weeks he had seemed to be going and so his death which came, quietly and painlessly due to heart failure, on the evening of Feb.
17, was a great shock to his family and many friends.

The funeral was held at his late home in Island Pond, Sunday, Feb. 20.
Much sympathy is expressed to the family in their sorrow.—J. C. A.

TO THE CITIZENS OF BETHEL.

A good school system is the most vital interest of any community or country. Although this town is above the average in intelligence, our schools are below the average in efficiency and equipment in the future of the rising generation for the sake of a false economy that is short sighted! This town is not lucky in debt nor is it especially poor.
The trouble lies with the excessive conservatism of the powers that prevail in our town meetings.

We have no fault to find with their intentions but the results are not what they should be. The vast majority of our citizens favor good schools and a progressive administration of the town generally. But it will be ineffective unless we all attend town meetings and make our influence felt by word or vote.
I appeal to all good citizens—friends of the community—to attend the next town meeting and stand for an improvement of the school system.

Nothing less than a thirty-six weeks school year and a reasonably good equipment and repair should satisfy us.
And let us observe those that stand for progress and still more important those that try to block the wheels of progress.

W. J. UPSON.

CHAPMAN CONCERT

Bethel, Friday, March 10th

The music lovers of our town are eagerly looking forward to the opportunity of hearing the most marvellous of all violinists Miss Florence Austin, and the celebrated Criterion Male Quartet of solo voices from New York. In order that the public may realize how phenomenal their success was at their recent appearance in Maine, we quote from the Maine Press a few sentences.

"ALMOST SENSATIONAL."
The Criterion Quartette received ten recalls. Its success coming after the triumph of Melba, while singing on the same program with her was almost sensational.—Bangor Daily News.

"SECOND ONLY TO THAT OF MELBA."
Both in solo and ensemble they were splendid, and were given a splendid ovation by the audience; it is certain that their appearance will be a source of delight to the audience second only to that of Melba.—Bangor Daily Commercial.

"SANG THEIR WAY INTO THE HEARTS OF THEIR HEARERS." The Criterion Quartette made its initial appearance last evening, and sang their way into the hearts of their hearers, for although they had only one programmed number, they were so heartily enjoyed they were obliged to respond to numerous encores.—Daily Eastern Argus.

HIGHWAY COMMISSION.

That the Maine Highway Commission intends to begin the 1916 road work as the earliest possible moment is made evident by the fact that already bids are being advertised for several sections of new State highway. The most important one is that for the completion of the Portsmouth, N. H., and Portland road. The bids will be opened on Feb. 23 at the office of the Commission for the completion of the last remaining unfinished stretch in this main artery of travel into the State, a distance of about four miles between Panstun, Scarborough and the city of Saco. The plan is to let the contract at once so that the contractors may begin work as soon as weather permits.

The intention of the State Highway Commission is to have the entire road completed by July 1 and thus avoid the terrible condition which prevailed last summer when the deluges were made impassable by the unprecedented rains.

The Commission has also overcome all the technicalities which have been hindering the work of starting the new highway into Moosehead Lake between Jackson and Rockwood, and bids have now been advertised to be opened on Feb. 23 for the clearing and grubbing of about 22 miles of this new highway through the virgin forest. The road will open up a wonderful lumbering and tourist country and will be only the second highway to tap the Moosehead Lake region. At the present time there is but one highway to this immense body of water, that from the south via Ouilford, Monson and Greenville. This new road will tap it from the west and will reach the lake at a point directly opposite the Mt. Kisco House. It is not expected, however, that this road will be completed in season for use the present year.

Reports received from all over Maine show that throughout the State, highway construction has gone through the

NEW ENGLAND ANIMAL FERTILIZERS

Are Effective. They give all-around satisfaction year after year. They are cheaper than home-mixed chemicals. They will contain more valuable plant food than ever in 1916 at no increase in cost.

New England Animal Fertilizers answer the essential requirements for crop production. Year after year they have demonstrated the superior quality of animal substances—BONE, BLOOD and MEAT—as a plant food of powerful productivity.

And now that the supply of potash has been cut off, we offer the same best fertilizer, tested and proven good without potash. Soils need organic food to keep them always rich and productive. New England Fertilizers furnish just that food!

"On May 1st I planted potatoes with New England Animal Fertilizer without potash. The yield was large, and I did not have to use any potash on this time as on the others. While I am fully satisfied that potash is needed for potatoes, and a good large quantity of it, I am convinced that it will not pay for a year or so to use New England Animal Fertilizer without potash."

They had a jolly time, as usual.

Friday afternoon Miss Bella Purington entertained her Sunday school class of young ladies. Games and sociability made the time pass swiftly until supper was announced. The dining room was prettily decorated with streamers of hearts extending from the electrolite to each corner of the table. The place cards were in harmony with the decorations and the favors were dainty heart-shaped cases, lace trimmed. Plates were laid for ten and they lingered long around the table enjoying a social time reading the "telegrams" which had been written before coming to the dining room at which mirth was caused as each one read. This is an annual event much enjoyed by the "girls" who come into Miss Purington's class from the primary and each year strengthens the bonds of friendship. It was a merry party who bade their hostess good night and the enjoyment had been mutual.

Every Intelligent Person Should Learn How to Write!

The pay is greater than in most of the professions. With a table, a chair, paper and typewriter you can begin now; and you do not need to give up your present employment. Even if you do not wish to take up journalism as a profession, there is no better mental training than learning how to write. The man or woman who writes is automatically thrown in touch with the big people who are shaping the destiny of the state and the nation, and with the big things that are taking place in the new development of the country.

The fundamentals are carefully and simply arranged in our Correspondence Course of Instruction. MOTHER-WISDOM.

The Day's Routine for the First Six Months of Baby's Life.

Helen Johnson Kyles in The Farmer's Wife.

There are days you never forget!
One of these is the day on which you are left in sole charge of your first baby.

Suddenly he becomes in your eyes a bit of eggshell which you are afraid to touch lest he break; a perpetual noise machine at which you are afraid to look lest he set up that cry-without-and which you are convinced will rupeture him; an insidious factory for colic!

Well, we live through that day and learn to laugh at those fears—such a superior, patronizing laugh, too! Nevertheless, they were twenty-four hours in the dark valley of apprehension. Let us do what we can to spare the other first-baby mothers the distress of them.
The law of this day and of all days to come must be system, regularity of hours and a calm way of doing things —and if possible, a calm spirit. If you don't not rattled pretty soon you will cease to feel rattled.

A new baby sleeps about twenty hours out of the twenty-four, if he is properly taken care of and consequently is comfortable. There are really just four things for you to do and it won't take you long to learn how to do them. Feed him; bathe him; keep his diapers dry; give him fresh air.

The things not to do may be summed up in four don'ts. Don't comfort him with extra feedings; don't take him up when he cries if you know that he is dry and comfortable and is crying only for some special attention; don't lift him without supporting his head and spine; don't let the sun shine in his eyes.

Now you are ready to begin the first day fearlessly, by feeding your baby at six o'clock in the morning or at whatever hour you have chosen as the most convenient for his first meal. He will be wet, so first change his diaper, pat him dry with a corner of it and powder him with powdered rice or tal-cum.

You should keep on your dresser, making it fresh each day, a covered glassful of boracic acid, made by dissolving in boiling water one-quarter teaspoonful of the powder. Keep in a covered dish beside this a little cotton batting to use as tiny sponges; always before nursing bathe your nipples with a wad of the cotton soaked in the boracic acid and then throw away the wad. Take up your baby. If he is asleep, take him up all the same. In a few days he will have learned the routine and will sleep soundly between feedings, waking himself quite accurately for them; whereas if you let him sleep out his sleep in the beginning, feeding him when he happens to wake, you will soon have a baby who sleeps poorly and does not digest his irregular meals—a restless, colicky baby.

It is best to lie down when you nurse, turning a little on the side of the breast the baby is taking; let your arm extend down his spine as a support, drawing him close against you. If you prefer to sit up, be sure that his back is well

Profitable Crops

Rich, productive soil becomes more and more valuable every year. Your soil will either become better or worse according to how you treat it. First and foremost in the right treatment of all land is the right fertilizer—nature's plant food.

The Parmenter & Polsey Animal Fertilizers offer you this food in its most concentrated form of BONE, BLOOD, MEAT and high-grade chemicals.
The very nature of this animal material makes these fertilizers the most powerful and productive known.

They act quickly, feeding a crop to abundant maturity and leaving the soil in prime condition for the next year's crops. The BONE, BLOOD and MEAT substances are the most essential plant food in the world. There's a brand for every crop you plant. Ask for booklet containing information about crops grown without potash last season.

See the Parmenter & Polsey dealer nearest you and get the BONE, BLOOD and MEAT animal fertilizer that makes big crops.

braced by your arm as you hold him.
Let him nurse from fifteen to twenty minutes at one breast and not at all at the other till the next time. This alteration is good for your supply of milk.
You will probably find that he is again wet and must once more be patted dry and powdered and made comfortable with a fresh diaper. Powdered rice may be used instead of talcum or it may be mixed with the talcum in any proportion you please. Then, without jolting him, lay him on his back or right side in his basket. This position may be varied later if he seems restless.

There is no reason why he should not lie on his left side or even on his face for a short time, if you are sure that his head is so turned that he can breathe freely. It must never be forgotten that a tiny baby is unable to turn himself from one position to another. Wash your nipples again with boracic acid and cover your breasts with thick folds of cheesecloth. These will need to be washed frequently on account of the milk which oozes out of them. If your nipples are sore let the druggist put up for you tincture of benzoin or witch-hazel or sublimate of bismuth; one ounce; castor oil, one fluid ounce. Use externally. This must be thoroughly washed off before the baby nurses. If it does not heal the tenderness you should consult your doctor at once, for grave discomfort may result from neglect.

If your baby regurgitates, that is, if a little milk dribbles out of his mouth, you need not worry. If his feeding is followed by true vomiting you should consult your doctor at once, omitting the next feeding altogether. Give him instead some warm boiled water from a feeding bottle with a rubber nipple which is scrupulously clean. It is well to keep this soaking between drinks in a glass of boracic acid. In putting it on the bottle do not let your fingers touch the part that baby takes in his mouth. It is hard to induce some bables to take water, but they need it and half an ounce or so should be given them if they wake between feedings.
The water must always be boiled and a little warm.

An hour previous to his next feeding baby will be ready for his bath. It will take you at least fifteen minutes to prepare for it. The temperature of the room should be about seventy-two. If you have a bathroom you will find the large tub perfectly convenient. It may be made smooth under his abdomen, and made softer by laying a blanket in the bottom. A tin or enamel footing may be substituted, but wood and paper mache are too absorbent to be kept clean.

Lay out in the room where the bathing is to take place, a yarn blanket, Castile soap, two soft towels, talcum powder or powdered rice, cotton batting, a glassful of boracic acid, and an orange stick with a rather blunt end.
This last article may be bought at the drug store for five cents, but any smooth, clean stick will serve.

On another table or chair place the clothes that baby is to put on. Be very sure that you have them all—band, diaper, shirt, petticoat, dress. It is a good plan to put on a new set each day while those which you take off, and which are not soiled, may hang up to air till the next morning. Place your seats securely on a table or box. Then, if you possess them, put on a rubber apron and over it one made of Canton flannel and bring the baby in. Undress him while he lies flat in your lap, slipping things over his feet not his head.
Don't sit him up. When he is naked, weigh him.

If the umbilical cord is still dressed the water must be so shallow as not to touch it but ordinarily the stump drops off on the fourth or fifth day.
In this case the water may just cover his body. Hold your left hand under his head like a pillow and with your right hand wet a wad of cotton batting and bathe him all over, including the top of his head. Be very gentle in touching his head and do not sit him up at all.

Lay the shawl in your lap, lift the baby with one hand under his head, the other under his hips, lay him in it and cover him, patting him dry with as little exposure as possible. Dust all his creases with talcum powder or rice. Of course you must turn him over to dry his back. To do this put one hand under his head, the other under his hips, and then roll him over away from you, slipping your hand around from the back of his head to his forehead as he rolls, so that his neck will have support all the time. While he is still in this position, dry and powdered, slip the band of French flannel flat and with a small safety-pin secure the end of it to the middle of the band, keeping the fingers of your left hand between the pin and the baby. This leaves a loose end. Then put his arms into his shirt and turn him again on his back, rolling him away from you once more, and letting your hands pass as he rolls, from his forehead to the back of his head and from his abdomen to his hips. Now secure the loose end of the band with three small safety pins, still keeping your fingers between the pin and the baby's flesh. The pinning ought to be done to the right or left of the navel.
This band should be so snug as to support the abdomen without squeezing it.
It must be said, however, that an increasing number of doctors are dispensing with this band altogether or very early in baby's career and substituting for it the knitted band which is really a ribbed, low-necked, short-sleeved shirt worn under the regular shirt.

The next garment is his diaper, and you will find it a great comfort if you learn to put this on well. Lay it under him and lift up over his hips, folded in a triangle. Bring two points (not four) up between his legs and hold them with one hand, while you cross over them snugly the two ends which come in front; hold all these together while you bring up between the legs the other two points. Let the front ends lie neatly and invisibly under them, and with a large safety pin secure all these thicknesses together, keeping one hand between diaper and baby. This makes a very neat, firm diaper and leaves no looseness around the legs.

Slip the rest of baby's garments on over his feet.

make another smaller wad in the same way, wet it, and wash out tenderly each tiny nostril. Do the same with another piece of cotton to the curves of the ear and the visible portion of the canal.
Then, without using the stick, wet thoroughly in the boracic acid a piece of cotton and bathe each eye.

The next thing in order is his meal —twenty minutes again at your other breast.

Then if the weather is fine he may go out of doors or on the porch. You will need your doctor's advice as to how early in his life he may do this, for of course, it depends on season and climate. Place him so that the sun is behind him. A carriage with a hood is the best outdoor bed but an umbrella or screen may be so arranged as to protect him from direct sunlight if he must lie in his basket or on a couch.
In summer, mosquito netting should cover him. If he must sleep indoors be sure that a window in the room is open top and bottom and that he is shot off from the draft.

Then the rest of the day will consist of his feedings at the appointed intervals and in keeping him supplied with dry diapers. It is almost incredible how many a baby will use but to leave him wet is nothing short of cruelty. They may be dried out once, but only once without washing. Otherwise the skin will chafe.

Sometimes in the course of the day baby will wake up and want to be sociable. I see no harm if during this wakeful period he is taken in his mother's arms and very gently rocked and cooed over. But he must not be bounced or laughed at loudly or excited in any way. Confine this cuddling hour to one period of the day when he wakes perfectly comfortable and happy and never let it directly follow a feeding.
When you put him back in his bed after it he will cry but don't take him up again. Make sure that he is dry and his clothing comfortable and then let him cry it out and drop to sleep. Soon he will learn that play times must end.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Address F. J. CLEMENT & CO., Toledo, Ohio. Sold by all Druggists. Beware of cheap imitations. Hall's Catarrh Pills for constipation.

winter in splendid condition. On the new concrete road between Portland and Dunstan, Scarborough, only a few small cracks have made their appearance, and these will be taken care of at an early date. The new Federal-aid highway between Portland and Brunswick also stood the winter well and the gravel sections all over Maine show but little effect from the winter.

It is expected that actual road work will be started throughout the State in about a month and that by April large crews will be in operation everywhere so that as much as possible of the new construction may be completed before the heavy tide of summer tourist travel sets in during July and August.

The Commission plans to complete the Portland-Portland highway before July 1 and also the road between Brunswick and Bath. This latter is made necessary by the fact that there are no suitable detours to handle the heavy traffic around the section which it is proposed to build.

To sit and sew all day

"Women's work is never done," they say, and too often this is true. To sit and sew all day is tiring work, and often results in headache, backache and sometimes kills ambition and takes away the appetite. The stomach, liver and bowels need exercise, but they don't get it when you bend all day over a needle. When this sort of work tells on you, you can find great relief by taking "L. F." Atwood's Medicine. It is safe to take and acts favorably on the digestive organs, regulates the liver and bowels, and helps a sick headache. Women or men who lead a sedentary life will find this medicine a fine remedy to keep in the home.

FREE—The Old Song words and music are sent free on receipt of outside yellow wrapper from the bottle, with your opinion of our Medicine.

Ilfam Steeves, about 45 years of age, employed by the Continental Paper Bag Co., was in the Mexico Municipal Court last week and was held in $1,500 bonds for the March term of the Supreme Judicial Court on a charge of bigamy.

He was arrested by Deputy Sheriff William F. Cyr at the request of a woman claiming to be his wife, No. 1, from Waterville, where she was married to Steeves in 1901, a child resulting from this marriage.

She claims Steeves deserted her in two years. Several years ago Steeves was married to Mrs. Ilfram Richards of Mexico who had her marriage certificate in court. Steeves waived examination.

The death of Mrs. Frazier, wife of Edward Frazier, formerly a grocer on Pine street, occurred on Saturday night from heart trouble. Mrs. Frazier was a young woman in the late thirties, and leaves besides her husband, eight children, the oldest being but twelve years of age.

A meeting of the Rumford Chamber of Commerce was held in the Club Rooms on Monday evening, Feb. 21st.

O. J. Conyn, as president, called the meeting to order, when the discussion of the subject of better maintenance of the State road was taken up. The Highway Commission of the State was represented by Hon. Philip J. Deering of Portland, chairman of the board, and by Paul D. Sargent, the chief engineer of the Commission—some fifty of the representative business men of the town being present.

A very interesting, and it is hoped, instructive meeting was held. It is also hoped and expected that good results in the way of better maintenance of the trunk line through Rumford will come from the discussion.

Hon. Waldo Pettengill speaking from the standpoint of what Rumford has done from her own resources, gave figures from the annual reports of the town covering the past sixteen years, showing that the sum of $391,000 has been expended on roads and bridges during that period, a very large amount for any one town to put out for that purpose.

Other speakers were Hon. R. L. Melcher, E. W. Howe, Martin L. Griffin and others. Mr. Deering of the Commission stated the purpose of the board is to have patrolmen on every section of completed road to see that such highways are kept up and not allowed to get full of ruts and water holes which so quickly cause deterioration.

Chief Engineer Sargent also explained the construction methods.

A meeting of the Common Club was held.

WEST PARIS

The farm buildings of Lendall B. Yates, situated on the road leading from West Paris to Bryant's Pond, and formerly owned by the late Elton G. Whitman, and later by the town of Woodstock for a town farm were totally destroyed by fire about 5 o'clock, Friday afternoon, together with 16 head of cattle, 8 horses, 4 hogs, hens, turkeys, geese, farming implements and riding sleighs and wagons, meat cart and $150 worth of dressed meat, and many other things.

Quite a large part of the household furniture, two work horses with which the hired man was away to work and a colt were the only things saved.

Mr. Yates had been away and Mrs. Yates and two small children were in the house. Mr. Yates came home and went to the wood shed for wood when the flames burst in upon him. He rushed to the barn which was full of flames and he was only able to save a colt.

The origin of the fire is not known. A man came to the barn early in the afternoon and took away a load of straw but whether or not a match or spark was accidentally dropped will never be known.

The loss is about $4,000 with $2,000 insurance. Mr. and Mrs. Yates are industrious, respected young people and have the sympathy of the community.

Diseases of Children

I find worms one of the most common of children's diseases—either pinworms or stomach worms. These parasites make their presence felt through deranged stomach, swollen upper lip, sour stomach, offensive breath, hard and full belly with occasional gripings and pains above the navel, pale face of leaden tint, eyes heavy and dull, twitching eyelids, itching of the nose, itching of the rectum, short dry cough, grinding of the teeth, little red points sticking out on tongue, starting during sleep, slow fever.

For over 60 years Dr. True's Elfix, the Family Laxative and Worm Expeller, or my father's discovery, has been the standard remedy for worms, stomach disorders and constipation, both for children and adults. Mr. Wm. L. Wylie of Houston, Texas, writes: "I want to say that Dr. True's Elfix is certainly a fine medicine." At all dealers, 35c, 50c and $1.00. Advice free. Write Auburn, Maine.

Spreading Prosperity

Fertile soil means good crops and good crops mean prosperity. The only way to keep your fields fertile and productive is to give back what your crops take away—nature's plant food.

Essex Organic Fertilizers are made out of BONE, BLOOD and MEAT—nature's best plant food in its most concentrated and productive forms. They not only give back to the soil what crops take away, but they enrich the soil for other crops, keeping it always fertile and always in the best condition. This means prosperity not only in land value, but in rich agricultural yields.

Extensive experiments have shown that these improved animal fertilizers, without potash, are as good as the high-grade Essex Fertilizers have always been. Thus, the practical elimination of potash from fertilizers by the war has little effect on the farmer who builds for prosperity with Essex BONE, BLOOD and MEAT Fertilizers.

See our dealer or write for free booklet which solves your fertilizer problems for 1916.

WHY PRINCE ALBERT WINS

Patented Process Is Responsible for Its International Popularity.

Smokers so much appreciate the flavor and coolness and aroma of Prince Albert pipe and cigarette tobacco that they often marvel that this one brand could be so different from all others.

The answer to this question is to be found on the reverse side of every Prince Albert package, where you will read: "Process Patented July 30th, 1907." That tells the whole story.

Prince Albert is made by a patented process that cuts out the bits and parch, which makes the tobacco so mighty agreeable and satisfying to men of every taste of every civilized nation on the globe.

Smokers should realize that this patented process cost three years' continuous work and study and a fortune in money to perfect. But the result has proven to be worth all that was expended upon it, because it has set free men who believed they never could enjoy a pipe or a makin's cigarette.

Prince Albert makes it possible for every man to smoke a pipe or roll his own cigarettes. And, no matter how tender the tongue, Prince Albert cannot bite or parch. That is cut out by the patented process, leaving for the smoker only the joys of the fragrant tobacco.

It is a fact that since Prince Albert "arrived," just about six years ago, it has made three men smoke pipes where one smoked a pipe before.—Adv.

POEMS WORTH READING

"ONLY A DAD."

Only a dad, with a tired face, Coming home from the daily race, Bringing little of gold or fame
To show how well he has played the game.
But glad in his heart that his own rejoice
To see him come and to hear his voice.

Only a dad of a brood of four,
One of ten million men or more, Plodding along in the daily strife, Bearing the whips and scars of life With never a whimper of pain or hate For the sake of those who at home await.

Only a dad, neither rich nor proud, Merely one of the surging crowd, Telling, striving from day to day, Facing whatever may come his way Silent, whenever the harsh condemn,
And bearing it all for love of them.

Only a dad, but he gives his all To smooth the way for his children small, Doing with courage set and grim,
The deeds that his father did for him.
This is a line that for him I pen, Only a dad, but the best of men.

But there is still another, even more obscure than "Dad," just as faithful, as self-denying, as patient a sufferer, and just as necessary to the best interests of business generally. She doesn't get much credit usually for whatever of business prosperity the country may enjoy, but she stands second to none as a factor of prosperity, and failure on her part may bring hard times and business depression and failure just as surely as any other class concerned.

Only a housewife, weary but neat, Waiting, her "hubby" to smilingly greet, (Cheering when troubles and trials assail, Lips that encourage, but never say fail.
Mothering his children with patience and care,
Keeping his house with economy rare, Meeting each problem with smile so serene,
Only a housewife, a slave, yet—a Queen!

Bearing the burdens of motherhood, true,
Doing a work which no other can do, Rearing the men of the future; like dad slowly to plod, in working clothes clad, Or, in the marts of a business worldwide,
Proudly to stand by the millionaire's side;
Rearing the women, who, like her, may stand
Holding the fate of a world in their hand.

Only a woman—God's last, yet His best!
Faithful if honored, if loved, if oppressed;
Making a home what God meant it to be;
Scorned by society's favorites, she Honors its queens if she gives them a thought;
Judged by her values; theirs are as naught;
She, a true wife, a true mother—home
Queen,
Is second to none by a world over seen.

OPPORTUNITY.

They do the wrong who say I come no more,
When once I knock and fail to find you in;
For every day I stand outside your door And bid you wake and rise to fight and win.

Wall not for precious chances passed away!
Weep not for golden ages on the wane!
Each night I burn the records of the day—
At sunrise every soul is born again!

Laugh like a boy at splendors that have sped,
To vanished joys be blind and deaf and dumb;
No judgments seal the dead past with its dead,
But never bid a moment yet to come.

Though deep in mire, wing not your hands and weep;
I lend by arm to all who say, "I can!"
No shamefaced cunctate ever sank so deep
But yet might rise and be again a man!

Do not behold thy lost youth all agony!
Foot rest from righteous retribution's blow!
Then turn from dotted archives of the past
And bid the future's pages white as snow.

BRYANT'S POND.

Between three and four o'clock Friday afternoon the farm buildings of Lendall B. Yates, situated near the Greenwood line, were found to be on fire. When discovered the interior of the barn was a mass of smoke and flames and it was impossible to save any of the stock, which consisted of sixteen head of cattle, three horses and four hogs. The cause of the fire is a mystery. The barn, shed and house were all connected. By the assistance of neighbors a part of the household goods were taken out. The loss is about $4,000 and the insurance amounted to $2,000. These buildings were located on the old county road and were formerly the town farm premises, later owned by John E. Hathaway. For the present the family will stay at the home of George Emmons in Greenwood.
The event of the season is coming soon. The seventh annual military drill, concert and ball, given by Mr. Christopher Co. No. 41, U. R. K. of P., will be held at the Opera House, Friday evening, Mar. 3. Chandler's orchestra of Lewiston, formerly the Ariel, will furnish music. The officers for the evening will be: Capt. Thomas W. Gordon, hall director, and Captains Freeman M. Morse, Clarence E. Cole and Fred M. Cole will act as aids. In addition to the regular company drill, and as a special feature, there will be a drill by a company of boys, who are now training under the instruction of Capt. Morse.

MIDDLE INTERVALE.

We thought the other day we could say in truth:
Cold winter's chain is broken now,
The sun's warm rays refresh the earth—
Our hearts in gratitude will bow To Him who gave to Spring his birth.

But we can let it go as we know that soon warm weather will be here and we can always be grateful for all seasons and times.

The big logs still are being hauled by here enroute to Bethel Hill factory and mill from the Walker lumber lot, being saved by the Bosworth mill.
Sick ones are convalescing.
Mrs. S. Bird (nee Mason) of New Hampshire is with relatives here.

Francis Carter is with relatives in Lewiston.
Clark Caswell, who has had employment in Portsmouth, N. H., is visiting relatives here.

JOE THE BOOK FARMER

MAKING GOOD
ON THE LAND

By GARRARD HARRIS

COPYRIGHT, 1915,
BY HANFORD BROTHERS.

SYNOPSIS

Joe Weston, fourteen years old, decides to make a success of his father's run-down farm. He reads the latest scientific books, Mr. Somerville, a merchant, agrees to help him.

Joe's father is pessimistic. He sneers at book farming and book farmers. Mr. Somerville, struck with Joe's business ability and ambition, backs him in prize competitions.

Passersby on the road linger to watch Joe operate. The sneers that were in evidence at first soon give way to looks of surprise. Joe is showing them something out of the ordinary.

Joe's father's pessimism gradually fades away. He watches Joe work. He sees him perform wonders with the soil. He soon is as enthusiastic as Joe. His conversation pleases Mr. Somerville.

Joe's corn is the wonder of the country. With money he receives from a commission merchant for his product he starts a bank account, which he proudly exhibits to his father.

There is a constant demand for the corn Joe is raising. In the prize competition he makes 388 bushels on an acre at a cost of $12.30.

It is announced that Joe Weston, the book farmer, won the first corn prize for his county. His father says, "Son, I'm powerful proud of ye."

Joe is overwhelmed with joy at receipt of a telegram that he also has won state championship. With the money he pays off part of the farm's indebtedness. He also wins trip to White House.

Joe describes to his mother and sister his trip to the White House and his talk with the president. Then he goes back to the farm which now is the talk of the entire countryside.

Joe meets Tom Ralston, a boy of about his own age. Tom is from the north and is in quest of health. The Ralston boy's father is wealthy, and Joe and Tom become fast friends.

Tom Ralston's father takes a great liking to Joe and offers to back him and help him in every way. Joe finally accepts Mr. Ralston's offer of fifty loads of manure.

"Oh, say, now—this is mighty fine of ye," Joe says. "It will be a big help to me, because I'm needing stuff like that. I'm trying to cut the cost, and you've saved me just about $15 in expense."

"By George, I'll do better than that, then. I'll make the lot boy haul it over there for you. I want to see you win the prize this year!"

Joe Weston looked doubtful. It was a great temptation, for he had to charge in all his time expended on the acre at 8 cents an hour and the use of a two horse team and wagon at $2 a day, those being the rules of the contest. Then his way suddenly appeared clear.

"Much obliged, Mr. Ralston, but I don't believe it would be just exactly right. I mean it would be actually helping me—that wouldn't appear on the record. It would give me a little advantage over the others competing, and I think I ought not to take it."

"I guess you are right, Joe. Fight it out on the square, and in case of doubt let the other fellow take the dubious chance. That will win, anyway," said Mr. Ralston. The major nodded approval.

"I'll do that very thing, sir," responded Joe quietly.

"Seems to me it would be entirely proper for you to take the stuff from me as a gift. I want to get it off my premises to get my lota clean. What do you think, major?"

"No objection in the world to that. It is just a case of where Joe is more fortunate than others in obtaining it, but he ought to haul it himself, I think."

"That's the way I look at it," said Joe.

"All right, I'll start those two darkies today to scraping it up in piles, and you can commence hauling when you are ready," said Mr. Ralston.

"I'll begin tomorrow soon after day-light."

"Oh, here now! That's too early!" objected Tom, who was to make his first actual trial of farm work when Joe started.

"No, sir—when you are paying $2 a day for a team and fighting every cent of expense. Day begins at daylight and ends at dark. I'll get fifteen loads a day hauled—maybe more."

"Want me to help?" Tom was hopeful that Joe would refuse.

"If you are going into this thing, you are enough to learn you better get a shovel and be on hand when I come over for the first load," answered Joe.

"Tom will be here," interrupted his father. "He's started this thing about wanting to learn farming; now he's got to keep it up."

"Oh, I'm no quitter!" asserted Tom, setting red. "I had no idea of dodging. I'll be there, and I'll work too!"

"All right. See you later," Joe Weston mounted the pony brought to the front door for him and, waving a farewell, loped down the road toward home.

"Howdy, stranger! Light an' rest your saddle!" called his father, pretending not to know him after his absence.

"Believe I will. Here, man; here's a half a dozen squirrels and a nice fat little wild turkey hen all dressed for you." Joe handed over the bundle. "Those squirrels will make a bully pie, and I guess you know what to do with that wild turkey." The game had been carefully cleaned and kept on ice in the big refrigerator at the Ralstons'.

"Mighty glad to get 'em," said his mother. "Looks to me like you've put on a few pounds lately, Joe."

"Wouldn't be surprised—at the rate I've been eating," chuckled Joe.

"We've been livin' pretty high ourselves since you've been running with those Yankee millionaire folks," said Mr. Weston. "Bear, deer, birds, wild turkey, squirrels—and you gettin' paid for it too!"

"Well, come to think of it, the scheme is pretty fine. But, then, pa, think of all the hard years we've had—no fun and powerful poor eating," suggested Joe solemnly.

"That's so, and I've about come to the idea that the harder a man works the more fun he's got to have some time or other an' the more he appreciates it when it does come."

"Sotter looks that way, don't it?" agreed Joe. "Well, we've got to get busy now. Come on, let's round up the calves and stock. I'm going to turn them in on the oats. Tomorrow I want the wagon and team. I start to hauling manure."

"Where from? The stable?"

"No. Mr. Ralston told me I could have about fifty loads over there if I'd haul it off."

"Say now, that's fine, ain't it?"

"Biggest help to me I can think of," said Joe.

"Well, you get on the pony and drive the stock up from the pasture, an' I'll open the gates. My, won't they have a picnic on them tender oats?"

"The twenty-three calves Joe and his father had picked up for an average

A Woman's Problem

How to Feel Well During Middle Life Told by Three Women Who Learned from Experience.

The Change of Life is a most critical period of a woman's existence, and neglect of health at this time invites disease and pain. Women everywhere should remember that there is no other remedy known to medicine that will so successfully carry women through this trying period as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs. Read these letters:—

sweep of vision of perhaps a quarter of a mile takes in the old church where the kings and queens of Sweden are buried, the Royal Opera House, and the National Museum of Arts. Surrounding us are great and wonderful streets, along which modern architecture has set an example that has many advantages over the finest illustrations of building in the United States.

We came to Stockholm during the Christmas celebration, for Scandinavia is a great land of Christmas cheer. One hundred citizens, led by the Mayor, formed a reception committee and waited until past midnight for our belated train. Hours later when we finally appeared, the Mayor, one of the finest gentlemen in all the world, still remained with a few others, for the purpose of escorting us to our hotels. Was this a significant peace demonstration and did it mean anything? Let me tell you that it was on the coldest night recorded in Sweden in 120 years. Does this answer the question?

Now of all things that a traveler should omit, new talks upon geography and so let me pass on to a more incident.

A Christmas Celebration.

It was eight o'clock Christmas morning, and many of us went to what is known as "The Jubletta," or morning Christmas service, held at the Odeon Theatre. There was a male choir of forty voices and the "Stille Nacht" was sung in Swedish. "My Country 'Tis of Thee" was rendered in English, and the national anthems of the two countries greatly affected the American travelers. Christmas trees, the stars and stripes floating alongside and entwined with the flag of Sweden, and beautiful little Christmas selections with some speech making, helped to constitute the program.

Our party was tired and a great many were lonely for folks whom they had left at home. It had been announced that this should be a day without a program—a day of rest. The great, noble-hearted residents of Stockholm evidently knew of our anxiety for loved ones at home, and they came in great numbers to wish us a Merry Christmas, and to encourage us in our great work which they so admirably spoke of as "inspired by love." These men and women completely won our hearts and our everlasting admiration upon Christmas day, and no member of this expedition will ever let another Christmas pass without feeling a fondness for those good sons and daughters of Sweden who left their own homes and friends to be with us and make our trip into a foreign land more pleasant upon the anniversary of the birth of the Prince of Peace.

In a former letter I have written concerning some of the indignities imposed upon neutral shipping interests by the British. I do not know how much of this has reached the United States, and there may be some difficulty in getting the particular things I am now going to write into the hands of my readers, but there are enough ways in which to send mail out of Norway so that I ought to "get it across." The facts tell the story best. The Oscar II was a Danish ship, bound from New York to the Scandinavian countries. It had absolutely no business with any of the belligerents. Notwithstanding this fact the British, who are masters of the seas, took us in charge one black night, and the grim, dark cruisers circled about us, while a small boat conveyed officers to us to take charge of our ship. Bloody pirates never looked fiercer than the Britons who came up over the rope ladder and boarded the Oscar II. They did not discommodate us in the least—these gentlemen of the British navy, but they made it very plain that they were in charge of our ship. We were, as a matter of fact, nothing more than prisoners, and so we remained for four days. As we entered the harbor at Kirkwall, Scotland, minister-looking craft piled back and forth, and we watched them draw the mines aside in order that we might pass between these gruesome-looking implements of destruction. In the harbor we laid at anchor for two days, during which time our passports were examined and two or three passengers were taken away, perhaps for the purpose of becoming British prisoners. Our cargo was overhauled by the British and although we were allowed to send mail and telegrams ashore, yet even this office must be performed under the regulations of the British, who forbade anyone to even as much as take a picture of the harbor. On the last day two of the members of our party were permitted to go ashore in order to satisfy us that mail and cables were being handled as expeditiously as possible.

Our ship was a sort of "Christmas ship," and the British became suspicious of the great number of parcel post packages on board. They theorized that these might contain ammunition or rubber goods, destined eventually to go to Germany. And so just as we felt that all our troubles were over, two tugs under command of British of-

WHY THEY WIN

The most valuable crops are those which are treated with the best fertilizers, and the best fertilizers are those which contain nature's food.

Lowell Animal Fertilizers are made of BONE, BLOOD, MEAT and high grade chemicals. They make your soil rich and productive in nature's own way. And they are always active, continually feeding the crop with nutrition enough to keep the soil rich and productive.

The war cut off the supply of potash. We immediately conducted extensive experiments through New England with specially prepared formulas, which produced abundant crops.

"The Maine Experiment Station tried out fertilizers—some with and some without potash. The result proved that the yield of potatoes without potash was far more profitable. And the potatoes did not suffer from lack of potash."
